Over half of regular GED Flash users moved up an entire score level on the GED Ready® practice test. Some moved up two score levels.

Data Shows: Higher Likelihood of Passing

GED Flash Group	# of Students	Mean GED® Ready Math Test Score	Mean GED® Math Test Score
Low Users (22 questions or less)	8,304	146	146
High Users (91+ questions)	8,406	152	150

Students who practiced frequently with GED Flash scored on average four points higher on their GED test vs. those who rarely used it.

More correct answers also means higher confidence: 79% of GED Flash users agreed that they felt more confident about taking the GED test after using GED Flash.

My Students are At Risk for Dyslexia – What's Next?

Dyslexia Simulator

Can you read this out loud quickly?

http://geon.github.io/programming/2016/03/03/dsxyliea

- Reference: https://www.cnn.com/2016/03/05/health/dyslexia-simulation/index.html

GED TESTING SERVICE®

What are we talking about? Terminology

Dyslexia is…an unexpected difficulty in reading for an individual who has the intelligence to be a much better reader, most commonly caused by a difficulty in the phonological processing (the appreciation of the individual sounds of spoken language), which affects the ability of an individual to speak, read, and spell (First Step Act, 2018).

- Individuals may self-id based on different terms such as: reading difficulties, learning disability, dyslexia, or neurodiversity.
- Instead of saying someone is diagnosed, we say they are identified as dyslexic.
- Several ways in which someone would be identified:
  - Screening that shows a person is at risk for dyslexia (but not yet diagnosed/identified)
  - Neuropsychological evaluation
  - Educational evaluation in a K-12 context (may also be referred to as a Specific Learning Disability in Reading/Writing)

GED TESTING SERVICE®

Why do I need to know? Current State

- 50% of adults who reside in departments of correction are dyslexic and 85% of youth in the Juvenile Justice system have a disability that qualify them for services under IDEA (Cherie Takemoto, 2016)

- Disability Rights Washington, describes Washington county jails: 1) fail to provide general programing and services in accessible formats to people with disabilities in the DOC, 2) fail to provide adequate therapeutic programming for people with mental health disabilities in DOC, and 3) do not provide reentry programing for people with disabilities.

- Remote learning and equality gaps are clear. Black students are estimated to fall behind by up to 10.3 months. High school drop-out rates, which are 5.5% for black students, are expected to increase.

- Nearly 7 in 10 people who are incarcerated will commit a new crime, and half will end up back in prison within three years. Given that about 95 out of every 100 incarcerated people eventually rejoin society (Prison Studies Project, 2020) it is crucial that we develop programs and tools to effectively reduce recidivism.

- A vast majority of US people who reside in a DOC do not have a high school diploma. They tend to lack basic writing and math skills. Academic education for inmates can include anything from GED and literacy classes to community college courses. A study from the National Institution of Justice found that education is the most effective service to reduce recidivism (Alison Hill, 2015). The Institute on Higher Education Policy states that the recidivism rate for people who reside in prison that participate in higher education programs is reduced by up to 46%.

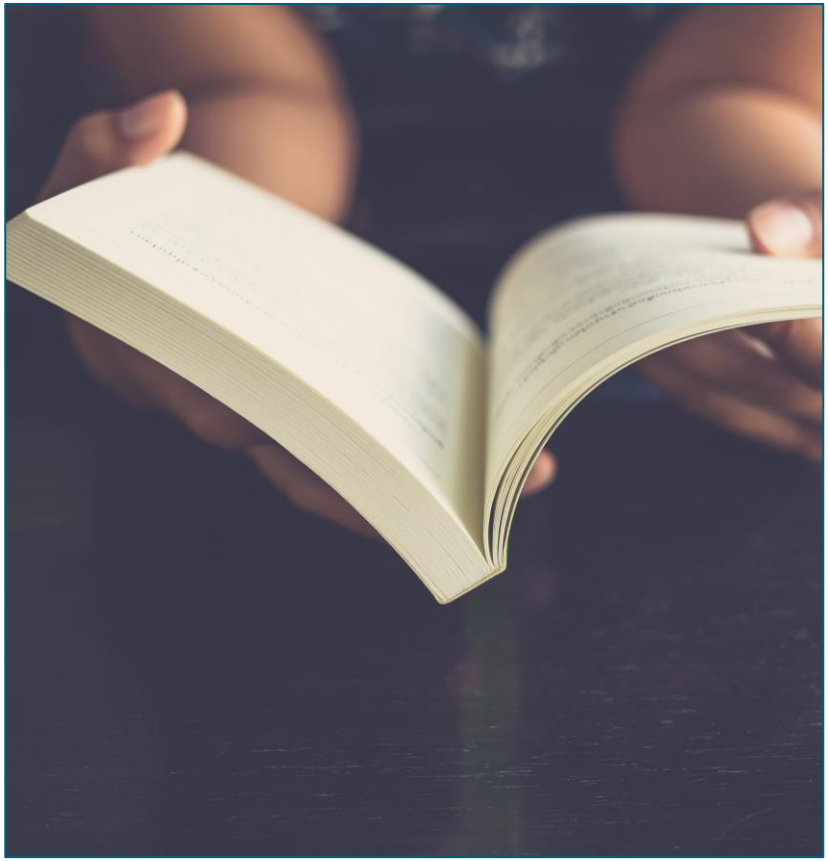
Correctional Education Improves Outcomes

- Correctional education improves the chances of not returning to prison for people who reside in the DOC.
- People who reside in a DOC and participate in correctional education programs have a 43 percent lower odds of recidivating than those who did not. This translates to a reduction in the risk of recidivating of 13 percentage points.
- It may improve their chances of obtaining employment after release. The odds of obtaining employment post-release among people who reside in a DOC who participated in correctional education was 13 percent higher than the odds for those who did not participate in correctional education.
- People who reside in a DOC and are exposed to computer-assisted instruction learned slightly more in reading and substantially more in math in the same amount of instructional time.
- Providing correctional education can be cost-effective when it comes to reducing recidivism.

GED TESTING SERVICE®

How do I know if my students have Dyslexia?

- Sometimes they know and will tell you
- Some have been diagnosed at some point in their life – try to get the records
- If you suspect a student has dyslexia, screen them to see if they are at risk
  - GED partnered with Pearson Clinical Assessment and Dr. Sally Shaywitz to provide a dyslexia screener for corrections



Once Students are Identified as At Risk, What Can I Do?

Diagnosis =

Further assessment which is a clinical process to establish the presence of a disability

Instruction/ Intervention =

Changing the individual's performance or skill set

Accommodation =

Changing the environment to make it more accessible to the individual's needs

GED TESTING SERVICE®

Diagnosis – Why & When?

If no diagnosis on file, things to consider:

- GED - a diagnosis of dyslexia is needed to apply for testing accommodations
- Value in your institution – will getting a diagnosis remove a barrier to allow student access to further education or work upon release?

- Available tools for diagnosis, e.g.
  - WIAT-4, KTEA-3, or WJ-IV are comprehensive achievement tests
  - WRMT-III is a comprehensive reading test
- Administered by a qualified professional e.g.
  - Psychologist
  - Special Ed Teacher
  - Educational Diagnostician

GED TESTING SERVICE®

Education Interventions

- Reading ability is on a continuum—the best interventions support ALL students
- What are you already doing?
- What resources do you need specifically for at risk students?
- What should you stop doing that isn't working? (reallocate resources)
- Tools/resources: free vs paid; self-guided vs taught

GED TESTING SERVICE®

Intervention Decision-Making: Choose…wisely (and think about a layered approach)

	Free (No money, just time!)	Fee-Based (One time purchase OR subscription)
Student-Led	-Microsoft Tools (e.g., Immersive Reader, Reading Coach) -Bookshare (supported reading)	-IXL -TypingPal -Word Up! -Other offline apps
Teacher-Led	-Homegrown materials for decoding, phonics, etc. -Read alouds, discussion-based learning about language rules and the value of literacy -library book engagement	-SPELL-Links to Reading and Writing -Other purchased literacy curricula with a focus on decoding -print or digital (share among facilities?) -professional development for reading/dyslexia for all staff

The key to "moving the needle" on reading outcomes includes:
1) doing the right things in instruction, and
2) enough minutes of instruction every day

Accommodations

Remove time pressure that limits their decoding and processing
  - So focused on decoding, no bandwidth for comprehension
- Personal reader for documentation
- Screenreader on computer i.e. Microsoft Immersive Reader
- Microsoft Dictate for writing
- Extra time for reading tasks
- Conversation/Oral communication
- Highlight key words in written text & say out loud
- Visual presentation of content i.e. graphs, charts, images
- Video lessons

Training & Funding Ideas

- Reach out to the clinicians in your institution
- Online training for teachers in dyslexia – brown bag for all
- Create a community to work on solving the problem
- Share what you learn with your students and screen them

- One time ask for money to invest in tools, resources, infrastructure
- Annual asks for money to support ongoing programs
- Reallocate education funds to meet all students' needs
- Get creative! Asking a dyslexic student to read is asking a lot. Try to make it fun and educational.

New Educator Checklist

If you are new to teaching the GED test, here's a checklist to help you get started.

1. First, familiarize yourself with some of the basics of the test and make sure you are receiving our latest updates.
   - ✔ Sign up for our monthly newsletter, In Session, to get test updates, helpful resources and program news.
   - ✔ Look through our student study guides. These provide an overview of the skills being tested and include sample problems for each skill.
2. Once you know the basics, now it is time to better understand the student experience in GED.com.
   - ✔ Feel free to create your own account in GED.com so you understand what your students will go through (please list your last name as "Candidate" so we know you are an instructor).
   - ✔ Take the free practice test so you understand the format of the test and the different types of questions.
   - ✔ Finally, consider taking a GED Ready® test, the official GED practice test. This is half the length of the GED test and is highly predictive of how students will perform on the actual test.
     - — Make sure you review your detailed score report. This is the report that tells students the areas they need to work on to score higher on the test.
     - — Notice that they can select their study materials from the dropdown box to create a customized study plan.
3. After becoming familiar with the student journey, it's time to apply for GED Manager, a free tool designed for adult educators where you can see your students' scores and score reports.
   - ✔ Apply for access via the Educators section of GED.com. Each state has different rules on who can gain access.
   - ✔ Once you get access, watch our training on how to effectively use the tool.

Explore these additional tools and resources to help you prepare your students.

Expressing meaning

1 Events, plots, characters, settings, and ideas

You'll be asked to:

- Put events in order
- Make inferences or draw conclusions about plots, sequence of events, characters, settings, and ideas in passages
- Analyze relationships within passages, including how people, events, and ideas are connected

For example, a passage describes Roberta, who is about to begin college and is the first person in her family to do so. The author may use words like "nervous," "excited," "proud," and "scared" to describe a variety of emotions Roberta experiences. The author could write about events leading up to enrolling in college, including navigating the application and financial aid processes. They may also share some information about the mixed responses from Roberta's family and friends -- many, but not all -- of whom are supportive.

You could be asked to make inferences about how Roberta was influenced by current or past events; the sequence of events that led to her enrolling in college; and what conclusions you can draw about Roberta's experience.

Example Questions

Events, plots, characters, settings, and ideas

Excerpt from Anne of Green Gables
By L. M. Montgomery

Marilla came briskly forward as Matthew opened the door. But when her eyes fell on the odd little figure in the stiff, ugly dress, with the long braids of red hair and the eager, luminous eyes, she stopped short in amazement.

"Matthew Cuthbert, who's that?" she exclaimed. "Where is the boy?"

"There wasn't any boy," said Matthew wretchedly. "There was only her."

He nodded at the child, remembering that he had never even asked her name.

"No boy! But there must have been a boy," insisted Marilla. "We sent word to Mrs. Spencer to bring a boy."

Relationships Between the High Impact Indicators and Other Indicators

The High Impact Indicators are a list of key skills assessed on the GED® test that, if emphasized in instruction, can help instructors make a significant impact on student skills and performance. This document shows the relationship between the High Impact Indicators and other indicators assessed on the GED® test. Adult educators can use this resource to create instructional plans that address the maximum number of skills in the limited time they have available with students. Providing instruction in a single High Impact Indicator area can help students broaden and deepen their skills, enabling them to apply those skills in multiple ways and in a variety of contexts across all of the content areas covered by the GED® test.

Note: High Impact Indicators appear in BOLD type.

Name Changes

Since June 1st, 2018, GED®Testing Service no longer supports name changes due to Marriage/Divorce for Testers who have already credentialed

We continue to support name changes under the following circumstances with formal documentation

- Required court-ordered such as witness protection and gender changes
- Provide the ability to correct their names in cases of typos
- We will also help inmate graduates make use of credentials obtained while incarcerated under an alias. This process, however, requires approval from the state GED Administrator™

What you can do to ensure accounts are accurate

EMAIL help@ged.com to get name and/or dob updated (EVEN IF TESTER HAS CREDENTIALED) but note this can take up to 5 business days and is not something that can be done over the phone

How to get accounts merged

All GED exams give Testers the option to adjust the font and color scheme appearing onscreen at any time during an exam.

You do not need to request font and color adjustments from GEDTS prior to the exam; these are automatically available for all Testers taking the GED® test.
